

Kalamunda Community Matters

Community Commitment

This newspaper is the first of many initiatives lead by young people.

Kalamunda Community Matters is committed to reflecting the diversity, assets and strengths of the Shire of Kalamunda, and its set of unique communities.

The creation of the Kalamunda Community Matters is based on the following aspirations and commitments –

- to bring people together in the development of our community;
- to provide an opportunity for young men and women
 - to actively contribute to their communities,
 - to have their views heard, and
 - to develop recognisable skills in communication, journalism, photography and business management;
- to be an objective and unbiased voice within the community;
- to generate community pride and to raise the profile of what is special about the Shire of Kalamunda;
- to support the diverse set of communities and the wide range of community organisations and businesses within the Kalamunda Shire; and
- to return profits to community initiatives.

Kalamunda Community Matters has been made possible through the involvement and generous support of many individuals, organisations and businesses. It looks forward to a long and positive association with the Kalamunda community and groups that it seeks to service and support.