A range of Kalamunda Shire businesses and community organisations are committed to creating opportunities for young people to pursue personal, community and career dreams.

A Kalamunda Lead-On organisation is being formed and its first ambitious project is a community newspaper that will enable young people up to the age of 25, to express their views and help communicate what is special about our Shire.

Young people will have the opportunity to develop personal and professional skills whilst pursuing interests such as journalism, photography and business and marketing.

Three workshops (supported by the Shire of Kalamunda) will be held in on consecutive Saturdays in June at the RSL Hall (another supporter) in Kalamunda and focusing on the different aspects of newspaper production.

This is a fantastic opportunity to have young people involved in shaping and controlling their own career, personal and community interests and passions.

The project relies on not just young people, but the whole community. If you are a 'not so young' Kalamunda Shire member are interested in newspapers, young people or want an interesting way to become more involved in the community, please ring us.
